Women's reservation, delimitation bills defeated in Lok Sabha

Bills fail to secure majority, exposing deep divisions over electoral reforms

NEW DELHI

The women's reservation and delimitation bills failed to secure the required two-thirds majority in the Lok Sabha during a special Parliament session, marking a major setback for the Centre's legislative push.

Out of the members present and voting, 278 MPs supported the bills while 211 voted against them. However, the proposals required at least 360 votes to pass, as they involved a constitutional amendment.

The bills aimed to amend provisions related to women's reservation in legislatures and initiate a fresh delimitation exercise. The Opposition strongly opposed the move, calling it an attempt to alter the electoral balance and undermine the federal structure.

During the debate, Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi criticised the government, terming the move a "panic reaction." Prime Minister Narendra Modi, however, defended the proposals, asserting that no state would face discrimination in the delimitation process.

Despite the ruling NDA's numerical advantage, it fell short of the supermajority needed for constitutional amendments. The outcome reflects the continued political divide over electoral reforms. The defeat of the bills signals that any future attempt to bring such sweeping changes will require broader political consensus.

Congress stalling women's reservation, says Amit Shah

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Friday accused the Congress of repeatedly delaying the implementation of women's reservation in legislative bodies, claiming it was the fifth such instance of obstruction. He strongly defended the need for delimitation, arguing that the principle of "one person, one vote, one value" has been undermined due to India's population growth from 54 crore in 1971 to nearly 140 crore in 2026. Shah also rejected Opposition claims of a North-South divide, alleging that such narratives were being deliberately fabricated for political reasons. He maintained that delimitation is essential to ensure fair representation and uphold democratic balance across regions.

Special court verdict triggers disqualification, reshaping Dharwad politics and Congress prospects

Congress MLA Vinay Kulkarni gets life term in Yogesh Gowda murder case

BENGALURU

Congress MLA Vinay Kulkarni has been sentenced to life imprisonment by a special court in Bengaluru in connection with the 2016 murder of BJP leader Yogesh Gowda, triggering his immediate disqualification from the Assembly. The Special Court for Elected Representatives, presided over by Judge Santosh Gajanan Bhat, delivered the verdict after a prolonged probe by the Central Bureau of Investigation. Sixteen others were also convicted and handed similar sentences along with fines.

Under Section 8(3) of the Representation of the People Act, any legislator sentenced to two years or more faces instant disqualification. The ruling aligns with the landmark Lily Thomas vs Union of India judgment, which removed the earlier grace period for appeals. Kulkarni's Dharwad Rural Assembly seat is now deemed vacant, with the Assembly Secretariat expected to issue a formal notification shortly. A by-election is likely within six months.

The conviction also bars Kulkarni from contesting elections during his imprisonment and for six years after release.

BWSSB becomes India's first water board with ISO 50001:2018 certification

BENGALURU

The Bangalore Water Supply and Sewerage Board on Friday said it has achieved a historic milestone by becoming "the first water utility" in India to receive the internationally recognised ISO 50001:2018 certification.

"This certification is a monumental achievement that strengthens our vision of a climate-resilient and future-ready Bengaluru."
—DK Shivakumar, Deputy Chief Minister

The certification, issued on April 14, 2026 by Bureau Veritas, recognises BWSSB's robust energy management systems, particularly at its bulk water supply pumping stations in TK Halli, Harohalli and Tataguni.

Deputy Chief Minister D. K. Shivakumar said the achievement reflects the government's commitment to building sustainable and efficient infrastructure. BWSSB Chairman Ram Prasath Manohar V highlighted the board's ongoing efforts to upgrade infrastructure and adopt advanced technologies to meet global standards. He reiterated the commitment to providing safe and reliable drinking water to citizens.

Officials noted that the recognition not only sets a national benchmark in energy management but also enhances service reliability for millions of residents.

The milestone follows BWSSB's 2025 BIS certification for piped drinking water supply, further cementing its leadership in the urban water sector.

Allahabad HC orders probe into Rahul Gandhi dual citizenship plea

LUCKNOW

The Allahabad High Court has directed authorities to initiate an inquiry into allegations of dual citizenship against Rahul Gandhi, observing that the claims warrant further examination.

The Lucknow Bench issued the order while hearing a petition filed by S. Vignesh Shishir, a BJP worker, who challenged a January 28 ruling of a special MP/MLA court that had refused to order registration of an FIR in the matter. The lower court had held that it lacked jurisdiction to decide issues related to citizenship.

Setting aside that view, the High Court directed the Uttar Pradesh government to either conduct the probe itself or refer the matter to an appropriate central agency for investigation.

The petitioner has sought a detailed probe under provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), the Official Secrets Act, the Foreigners Act and the Passport Act. He has alleged that he possesses documents and email communications purportedly from the British government suggesting that Rahul Gandhi holds British citizenship, which would make him ineligible to contest elections or hold public office in India.

No trekking without guide: Karnataka unveils new SOP

BENGALURU

Karnataka has made it mandatory for trekkers to be accompanied by certified nature guides on all forest department-approved trails, with Forest Minister Eshwar B. Khandre unveiling a comprehensive Standard Operating Procedure (SOP) on Friday.

The move comes after recent safety incidents, including a trekker going missing in Tadiandamol and another case near Manikyadhara. The SOP aims to strengthen safety, monitoring and accountability.

Authorities said guides must ensure no trekker moves ahead or lags behind, with headcounts conducted regularly.

Communication with base camps every 30 minutes has also been made mandatory.

Trekkers will be briefed on route details, terrain and wildlife response protocols before starting. The SOP prohibits loud devices, weapons, campfires, flash photography and single-use plastics. Waste must be carried back and disposed of at base camps.

Minors must carry parental consent, while senior citizens need fitness certificates. First-aid kits will be mandatory for guides and trekkers.

"All trekking routes will be integrated into an online platform for advance booking, ensuring better regulation and safety," Khandre said.

FATAL CAR INFERNO

Six killed in fiery road accident near Shorapur

YADGIR

Six persons, including three women from a single family, were burnt alive after a car collided with a bus and caught fire near Shantapur village in Shorapur taluk of Yadgir district on Friday.

Police said the victims were among nine passengers travelling in the car when it was involved in a head-on collision on National Highway-151. The bus, which was travelling from Bengaluru to Kalaburagi, was completely gutted in the fire. However, all 20 passengers on board escaped unhurt.

Preliminary investigations suggest that a tyre burst may have caused the driver to lose control, leading to the collision. The victims were reportedly returning to Sirwar after visiting the Sri Venugopal Swamy temple in Shorapur.

Senior police officials, including Superintendent of Police Prutwik Shankar, visited the spot. Fire and emergency personnel brought the blaze under control after several hours. A case has been registered at Shorapur police station, and further investigation is underway.

Kodagu GP staff stage protest, demand wage hike

Kodagu gram panchayat employees protest demanding salary hike, better wages, and improved service conditions from government.

MADIKERI

Gram panchayat employees in Kodagu staged a protest urging the government to fulfill their long-pending demands, including salary revision, minimum wage implementation, and improved service conditions.

The agitation was organised to draw attention to what employees describe as persistent neglect of their financial and employment concerns. Protesters said that despite repeated appeals to authorities at various levels, no concrete steps have been taken to address their grievances.

Employees from multiple gram panchayats across the district participated in the demonstration, raising slogans and demanding immediate intervention. They highlighted that rising cost of living has made their current wages insufficient to meet basic needs, creating financial stress among staff members.

The protesters also stressed the need for implementation of minimum wage standards and regularisation of service conditions. They pointed out that a large section of gram panchayat workers are engaged on temporary or contractual terms, leading to job insecurity and lack of social protection benefits.

According to the employees, essential rural governance services are being impacted due to unresolved issues related to staff welfare. They warned that continued inaction could further affect the functioning of local administrative bodies that depend heavily on their services.

The protestors urged district and state authorities to initiate immediate discussions with employee representatives and arrive at a fair and sustainable solution. They also cautioned that the agitation may be intensified if their demands continue to be ignored.

Officials are expected to examine the demands and consider possible measures, though no formal assurance has been issued so far regarding wage revision or policy changes.

The protest reflects broader concerns regarding rural administrative workforce conditions and highlights the need for systemic reforms to ensure fair compensation and job security for gram panchayat employees.

Kundapur drinking water issue sparks MLA anger

Kundapur faces drinking water shortage as MLA criticises officials for inaction, urging urgent measures to resolve ongoing supply issues affecting residents.

KUNDAPUR

The ongoing drinking water shortage in the Kundapur constituency has triggered strong criticism from the local MLA, who has accused officials of failing to show adequate willpower in addressing the crisis.

The MLA expressed frustration over the delay in resolving water supply issues, stating that repeated complaints from residents have not been effectively acted upon. He alleged that despite available resources and administrative mechanisms, the problem continues due to lack of urgency and coordination among departments.

Residents in several parts of the constituency have been facing irregular water supply, especially during peak demand periods. The situation has led to growing public concern, with calls for immediate and long-term solutions to ensure reliable drinking water access.

The MLA reportedly questioned the performance of concerned officials during a review meeting, urging them to take swift corrective measures. He stressed that drinking water is a basic necessity and cannot be delayed due to administrative inefficiency.

Officials, however, are expected to assess the ground situation and take necessary steps to improve supply in affected areas. Temporary measures, along with long-term infrastructure improvements, may be considered to address recurring shortages.

The issue has highlighted broader challenges related to water management and distribution in the region, particularly during periods of increased demand and seasonal stress.

Authorities are likely to conduct further inspections and coordinate with local bodies to mitigate the crisis and restore normal supply levels.

Complete civic works before monsoon, MLA warns officials

SHIVAMOGGA

MLA S.N. Channabasappa has issued a stern warning to officials to resolve civic issues before the onset of the monsoon, stressing that delays will not be tolerated.

Chairing a meeting with officials from departments including the City Corporation, MESCOM, Smart City, PWD, and water supply authorities, he said public grievances must be addressed immediately. "No more excuses. All pending works should be completed before the rains begin," he said.

A major concern raised was the delay in removing 849 electric poles linked to underground (UG) cable work under the Smart City project. Officials cited public objections and technical issues, but the MLA directed them to fix responsibility on contractors and complete the work within the deadline.

Incomplete UG cable works in six new layouts, non-functioning streetlights in areas like Basavanagudi, and unfinished works in Tilaknagar were also highlighted. The MLA expressed displeasure over delays in opening e-toilets even after four years of construction. Out of 18 identified units, 14 are in use, while four remain non-functional. Officials assured that the functional units would be upgraded to women-friendly facilities soon.

The condition of footpaths and roads also came under scrutiny. Authorities were instructed to issue notices to contractors for poorly constructed footpaths and ensure corrective action. Citizens demanded proper footpaths and streetlights in several areas, including Vidyanagar and Navule layouts.

BJP MLA criticises CM over delimitation narrative claim

BJP MLA Sunil Karkala criticises CM Siddaramaiah over delimitation remarks, calling them misleading and politically motivated.

KARKALA

BJP MLA Sunil Karkala has strongly criticised Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, accusing him and the Congress party of spreading a "false narrative" regarding the impact of the proposed delimitation exercise and women's reservation on southern states.

Sunil Karkala, who also serves as the state general secretary of the BJP, said that the Chief Minister's remarks suggesting reduced political representation for southern states were misleading and politically motivated. He alleged that Congress leaders were deliberately amplifying fears to create confusion among the public and deepen regional divisions.

The issue has gained prominence amid ongoing discussions on proposed constitutional amendments related to women's reservation and delimitation. Opposition leaders in southern states have raised concerns that constituency redrawing based on population could alter the balance of parliamentary representation in favour of more populous northern regions.

However, Sunil Karkala cited data suggesting that the overall share of southern states in Parliament would not see an absolute decline. He stated that while the number of seats may increase, proportional representation would remain broadly stable.

He urged the Chief Minister to verify facts before making public statements and accused him of misrepresenting the issue. Karkala further said that such statements undermine informed debate on important constitutional reforms.

The BJP leader maintained that the proposed changes, including women's reservation, are aimed at strengthening democratic representation and ensuring wider participation without disadvantaging any region.

The exchange reflects growing political tensions between the ruling party and the opposition over delimitation, with differing interpretations of its impact on federal balance and regional representation.

Migrant worker shortage halts construction activity

MANGALURU

Migrant labour shortage due to SIR, census and elections halts construction in Mangaluru, delaying projects and putting pressure on contractors amid monsoon deadline concerns.

Construction activities in Dakshina Kannada district have been severely affected due to a shortage of migrant labourers, with many projects coming to a standstill, according to civil contractors' associations.

Contractors say most building works in Mangaluru city depend heavily on migrant workers from northern Indian states such as Bihar, Uttar Pradesh, West Bengal, and Assam. However, following the Holi festival, a large number of workers returned to their native places and have not yet come back.

Industry representatives attribute the delay in their return to administrative and civic processes such as Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of voter lists, census-related work, and election duties in their home states. As a result, nearly 70–80 per cent of construction activities, including bar bending and plastering work, have reportedly been affected.

With the monsoon season approaching, contractors are under additional pressure to complete foundation and structural work on time. The shortage has led to delays in project deadlines and increased tension between builders and property owners.

Civil Contractors Association president Mahabala Kottari said the sector is almost entirely dependent on migrant labour. He noted that workers have not returned after the festive season, causing major disruptions in ongoing projects. He added that delays are making timely completion of construction work difficult, creating operational and financial stress.

The association also highlighted that issues such as sand supply shortages are further worsening the situation, compounding the challenges faced by the construction industry.

Vice-president Satish Jogi said that the combination of labour scarcity and infrastructure-related constraints has pushed the Mangaluru construction sector into a difficult phase, with multiple projects either delayed or temporarily halted.

MLA Vedavyas Kamath demands government issue white paper on development funds and their utilisation transparency.

MLA Vedavyas Kamath demands white paper on funds

MANGALURU

MLA Vedavyas Kamath has urged the government to release a white paper detailing the funds sanctioned and utilised for development works, questioning the transparency in allocation and expenditure.

Speaking to reporters, Kamath said there is growing public concern over whether approved development funds are actually reaching intended projects. He insisted that a detailed official statement should be issued to clarify the status of financial releases and implementation progress.

He added that such a white paper would help ensure accountability and allow citizens to understand how public money is being spent on infrastructure and civic works in the constituency and across the region.

Kamath also pointed out that delays in fund release and execution of development projects are affecting civic amenities and slowing down planned improvements. He said elected representatives have a responsibility to raise these concerns and demand clarity from the authorities.

The MLA further stated that transparency in governance is essential for maintaining public trust, and publishing a comprehensive report on development funding would strengthen administrative accountability.

He urged the government to take immediate steps to address the issue and ensure that sanctioned funds are properly disbursed and utilised for their intended purposes.

Kamath reiterated that he will continue to press for clarity on development-related expenditures and advocate for timely implementation of public projects in his constituency.

Labour shortage threatens construction sector growth in district

MANGALURU

The construction sector in Dakshina Kannada district is facing serious challenges due to a shortage of labour and essential raw materials, raising concerns about a possible slowdown, contractors said on Friday.

Addressing a press conference at the city press club, District Civil Contractors Association President Mahabala Kottari said the industry has been struggling for the past few years due to inadequate supply of key materials like red stone, sand, and M-sand. The situation has worsened recently as a large number of migrant workers have returned to their native states.

He explained that due to elections, electoral roll revisions, and festivals in several northern states, many skilled workers have left the district and have not yet returned. "Around 90 percent of migrant labourers who went home have not come back, creating a major gap in workforce availability," he said.

The district relies heavily on workers from states like West Bengal, especially for skilled jobs such as plastering and bar bending. Their absence has slowed down several ongoing construction projects.

Contractors also pointed out that strict government regulations have affected the supply of raw materials. The availability of red stone has not met demand, while sand from non-CRZ areas remains insufficient. Shortage of M-sand has further added to the crisis.

Due to these issues, contractors are unable to complete projects on time, leading to disputes with property owners. Industry representatives urged the district administration and state government to ensure adequate supply of materials.

Engineers Association member Ujwal D'Souza suggested introducing incentive schemes to encourage local workers to join the sector and help address the labour shortage.

The Hindu Janajagruti Samiti submitted a formal representation to Bengaluru Police Commissioner Seemant Kumar Singh, requesting authorities to deny permission for the event. The group pointed to past controversies involving the comedian, including a 2021 case registered in Indore under sections of the IPC related to alleged hurt of religious sentiments. KERC Relief Sparks EV Charging Boom at Petrol Pumps in Karnataka

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A regulatory easing by the Karnataka Electricity Regulatory Commission has triggered a rapid expansion of electric vehicle (EV) charging infrastructure at petrol pumps across Karnataka, particularly around Bengaluru, as oil companies pivot towards cleaner mobility solutions.

Amid shifting energy demand and uncertainties linked to global fuel supply disruptions, Oil Marketing Companies (OMCs) are accelerating investments in EV charging networks. The push gained momentum after KERC, in December 2023, relaxed its earlier rule mandating transformers at fuel retail outlets. It directed Bangalore Electricity Supply Company to provide grid connectivity for EV charging stations without requiring transformers within petrol bunk premises.

The earlier regulation required outlets with more than 800 sq ft area or power consumption exceeding 35 kW to install transformers. However, OMCs had raised safety concerns, noting that such installations would violate norms set by the Petroleum and Explosives Safety Organisation, which restrict electrical equipment near highly inflammable fuels like petrol, diesel and LPG.

Following these representations, KERC ruled in favour of the companies, paving the way for rapid deployment. As a result, 378 petrol pump outlets have applied to BESCOM to set up public EV charging stations. Of these, 307 have already been commissioned, while work is underway at the remaining sites.

Officials say this expansion will significantly benefit EV users by improving accessibility to charging points, especially during long-distance travel, and help address range anxiety.

BESCOM Managing Director N Shivashankara said the utility has adopted a facilitative approach to ensure faster approvals and reliable power supply. Internal processes such as technical feasibility checks, load sanctioning and infrastructure readiness have been streamlined to reduce delays.

He added that a single-window digital dashboard has been introduced to fast-track approvals. The platform enables end-to-end tracking, real-time updates and online documentation, improving coordination and transparency.

Bellandur Flyover Space Transformed into Public Area

Officials said the area was previously filled with silt, debris and encroachments, including unauthorised vendors. The clean-up drive removed these obstacles, paving the way for redevelopment into a more accessible and people-friendly space. Landscaping and plantation work have enhanced the visual appeal, creating a green and welcoming environment.

As part of the initiative, 'suvidha' cabins were installed for pourakarmikas, providing sanitation workers with improved working conditions and access to basic amenities.

Speaking at the event, Lokhande said the project reflects the administration's commitment to building sustainable and inclusive urban spaces. The inauguration was attended by senior representatives from Intel, civic officials and pourakarmikas involved in maintaining the area.

Civic authorities said the project demonstrates how neglected infrastructure spaces can be repurposed effectively.

WAIT AND WORRY: DELAYS MOUNT IN DOMESTIC LPG DELIVERIES

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

City households are grappling with growing anxiety as delays in domestic LPG cylinder deliveries stretch beyond two weeks, disrupting daily routines and forcing many to seek costly alternatives.

Consumers across Bengaluru report long waiting periods despite booking refills well in advance. J Manju, a domestic worker from Yelahanka, said she has been waiting for over 25 days for her Indian Oil Corporation cylinder. With a family of four, she has struggled to manage, even payig Rs 1,500 for a partially filled cylinder in desperation.

Ajith Kumar from Horamavu shared a similar experience with a cylinder booked through Hindustan Petroleum. After waiting two weeks, he visited the refilling station multiple times and was eventually asked to collect the cylinder himself, enduring long queues.In another case, a refill booked through Shri Vishnu Indane Gas Agency on March 25 remained undelivered even after 16 days. Households with only one cylinder are finding it particularly difficult to cope with the delays.Adding to the frustration are complaints about the grievance redressal system. Several consumers allege that complaints were marked as resolved without actual delivery, while others said delivery personnel were unresponsive, leaving them uncertain about timelines.

Responding to the concerns, a spokesperson from Bharat Petroleum Corporation Limited maintained that the backlog in Bengaluru Urban district is limited to around three-and-a-half days. The company said it follows a strict FIFO (First In, First Out) system for LPG distribution.

Officials have advised consumers to use helpline services to obtain distributor details and escalate issues.

JUSTICE AWARENESS SPEECH

Follow Ambedkar's constitutional values daily: Judge

CHITRADURGA

Principal District and Sessions Judge Rona Vasudev has called upon citizens to adopt the values of the Constitution in their daily life, saying that true respect to Dr. B.R. Ambedkar lies in practicing his ideals rather than merely remembering him on special occasions.

He was speaking after inaugurating the 135th birth anniversary programme of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar organised by the Chitradurga Bar Association at the Advocates' Hall in the city on Friday.

Judge Vasudev said Ambedkar should not be understood only through the Preamble of the Constitution, but through the entire constitutional framework. He cautioned that simply reading the Preamble without implementing its principles in real life makes such practices meaningless.

He noted that while people often speak about rights, equal attention is not given to fundamental duties outlined in Part IVA of the Constitution. Citizens must reflect on whether they are acting with sincerity, honesty, and a spirit of brotherhood towards the nation, he said.He added that celebrating Ambedkar's legacy once a year is not enough and urged people to follow his teachings in everyday conduct. Only then can genuine tribute be paid to the architect of the Constitution, he said.Bar Association President H.S. Maheshwarappa said India can achieve global leadership only when citizens balance their rights with responsibilities. He highlighted Ambedkar's contributions not only as a constitutional architect but also as an economist whose early writings influenced financial thought in India, including the establishment of the Reserve Bank of India.

Speakers also recalled Ambedkar's vision for river linking, gender equality in education, and his study of multiple global constitutions to frame India's system of equality.

CHIKKABALLAPURA

District Magistrate G. Prabhu has appealed to farmers in the district to make use of the toll-free emergency veterinary service number 1962 to access doorstep animal healthcare facilities.He made the appeal while reviewing the progress of the Foot-and-Mouth Disease (FMD) vaccination programme and mobile veterinary unit services at the District Magistrate's office hall.The DC said that farmers can call the helpline for emergency treatment of livestock conditions such as calving complications, bloating, fractures, poisoning, and other serious health issues. He added that trained veterinary doctors will reach farmers' locations through mobile units and provide immediate treatment. A total of eight mobile veterinary units are currently functioning across eight taluks.He urged farmers to spread awareness about the service and make full use of it.The ninth phase of the National Livestock Disease Control Programme will be implemented in the district from April 23 to May 22 for a period of one month. The DC emphasized that all cattle and buffaloes must be vaccinated to prevent the spread of FMD, which is a highly contagious disease transmitted through air and direct contact between animals.

He instructed Animal Husbandry Department officials to intensify awareness campaigns through dairies and local communication channels.

Officials said the district has a total of 1,81,676 cattle and buffaloes, and complete vaccination coverage is being targeted.

Culture more important than education, Says Kadakol Seer

KALABURAGI

Stressing the importance of values in modern society, seer of Kadakol Math, Dr. Rudramuni Shivacharya, said that culture and moral values are more important than mere education.

He was speaking while blessing devotees at a Purana programme held in Varavi village of the taluk. "While it is encouraging that today's youth are pursuing higher education, it is unfortunate that they are forgetting religion, culture, and human values," he observed.

The seer emphasized that education without culture is meaningless. He urged youth to preserve traditions, family values, and respect for elders, especially in rural areas, stating that these are the true markers of a fulfilled life.

He further advised youngsters to stay connected with their roots and maintain respectful relationships with elders in their native villages. "One must cultivate the habit of helping saints and the poor. Even an uneducated person with good values is better than an educated person without them," he said.

Expressing concern over the rising trend of bad habits among youth, Dr. Rudramuni Shivacharya warned against alcoholism and other addictions, stating that such habits lead to destruction. "Only by following good values and discipline can one lead a happy life," he added. He also called upon youth to imbibe the teachings of Puranas to build strong character and lead a meaningful life. Several seers and dignitaries were present on the occasion, including Guruling Devaru of Yalgod and Arakeri Paramadeshwar Math, Eranna Mutya of Sathkhed Rajabhag Savar Temple, Satyanand Mutya of Anajagi Brahman Math, Yallappa Mutya of Shakhapur Math, and Rudramuni Beeralinga Devaru of Honagunti Math, along with local leaders and devotees.

Khandre said Karnataka supports cooperation but opposed Lok Sabha seat increase, alleging unfair tax allocation.

Centre favouring north in tax share, delimitation: Khandre

BIDAR

Karnataka Forest, Ecology and Environment Minister Eshwar Khandre has alleged that the Central Government is showing bias towards North Indian states in matters of tax distribution and Lok Sabha seat allocation.Addressing reporters, he said that while the state is willing to cooperate, there has been no positive response from the other side. He expressed concern over the proposed increase in Lok Sabha seats, claiming that it disproportionately benefits northern states.Khandre stated that southern states contribute significantly more in taxes but receive comparatively less in return. "For every one rupee paid in taxes, we receive only about 15 paise, whereas some northern states receive nearly three times more than what they contribute," he alleged.He further claimed that Karnataka contributes around ₹4.5 lakh crore in taxes but receives only about ₹60,000 crore from the Centre.

Education returns to its true purpose again

PRITHA ROY

Education, which was once considered a powerful tool for shaping character, curiosity, and critical thinking, is increasingly being re-examined as institutions and educators attempt to bring it back to its original purpose.

In recent times, education has largely become focused on marks, rankings, and memorisation, reducing its broader aim of developing responsible and well-rounded individuals. However, a gradual shift is now being observed, with efforts to prioritise understanding over rote learning and skills over scores.In ancient times, particularly during the Vedic period, education followed a holistic approach.

The Gurukul system emphasised discipline, moral values, and life skills along with academic learning. Students lived with their gurus and were trained not only in subjects but also in managing responsibilities, relationships, and practical life situations. The system focused on overall personality development and balance in life.The ancient principle "Sa Vidya Ya Vimuktaye" highlights that true education is that which leads to liberation and wisdom.In contrast, modern education has often been criticised for focusing mainly on job-oriented learning, leading to stress and a lack of essential life skills among students.

To address this gap, several institutions are revisiting traditional methods by introducing residential learning environments, yoga, meditation, and value-based education.

The National Education Policy (NEP) 2020 has further strengthened this direction by promoting experiential and holistic learning.Educators believe that combining traditional values with modern teaching methods can help build a generation that is not only skilled, but also responsible, ethical, and capable of contributing meaningfully to society.

Supporters of Malikayya Guttedar Hit Back at Prakash Jamadar in Afzalpur

AFZALPUR

Supporters of former minister Malikayya Guttedar have strongly reacted to recent remarks made by Guarantee Implementation Committee Chairman Prakash Jamadar, accusing him of indulging in politics by using the name of late Vitthal Herur.

Addressing a press conference in the town, former APMC President Ramanna Nayakodi alleged that Prakash Jamadar has forgotten his own past. He claimed that during elections when Vitthal Herur had contested, Jamadar had "betrayed" him by extending support to M. Y. Patil, a fact that, he said, the Koli community has not forgotten.

He further criticized Jamadar, stating that as a follower of M.Y. Patil, he had failed to deliver justice to the Koli community and was now engaging in politics driven by personal interests without any ideological commitment.

Nayakodi also demanded that Jamadar refrain from making "disparaging remarks" against Malikayya Guttedar, who, he said, had significantly contributed to the development of the constituency.

Speaking on the occasion, leader Devindra Jamadar highlighted that during Guttedar's tenure, several members of the Koli community were appointed to key positions. He cited examples including Jyoti Jamadar and Rukkini Jamadar .

ASSAM BEGINS ARGUMENTS IN ZUBEEN GARG CASE

Government starts detailed legal submissions in ongoing hearing process

GUWAHATI

Advocate General Devajit Saikia on Friday formally opened the Assam government's side of arguments during the charge framing hearing in the ongoing Zubeen Garg death case before a special fast-track court in Guwahati. The proceedings, which have already continued for around fifteen days, are focused on determining whether sufficient material exists to frame charges and proceed to a full trial.

Saikia stated that the government side will require approximately six to seven days to complete its submissions, as the legal team intends to ensure that no loopholes remain in their presentation before the court. He emphasized that the arguments are being carefully structured and will be carried forward collectively by the prosecution team representing the state.

Speaking to reporters after his appearance before the court, Saikia said that he had initiated the arguments on behalf of the Assam government and confirmed that the process would continue in the coming days. His remarks highlighted the procedural stage of the hearing, which is a crucial step in criminal proceedings where the court evaluates the strength of the prosecution's case before deciding whether to formally frame charges against the accused.

The special fast-track court has been hearing detailed submissions from both sides as part of this pre-trial process. Legal experts note that charge framing hearings are significant because they determine the direction of a case, ensuring that only matters with sufficient legal basis proceed further in the judicial system.

In this instance, the government's legal representatives are focusing on presenting a comprehensive argument to support the continuation of the case. The extended duration of submissions reflects the complexity and seriousness with which both sides are approaching the matter.

Saikia reiterated that the state's legal team is committed to completing its arguments without leaving gaps that could be exploited later in the proceedings. The hearing is expected to continue in the coming days as both prosecution and defense advance their respective positions before the court.

Gujarat High Court Rejects Ashram Appeal

AHMEDABAD

The Gujarat High Court on Friday dismissed an appeal filed by the Asaram Ashram Trust in a long-standing land dispute in the Motera area of Ahmedabad, paving the way for the state government to take possession of more than 45,000 square metres of valuable land. The ruling upheld earlier orders directing the resumption of the land after finding serious violations of the original allotment conditions.

A division bench comprising Chief Justice Sunita Agarwal and Justice D. N. Ray confirmed a previous judgment of a single judge, which had already upheld the Ahmedabad Collector's decision to reclaim the land on the grounds of encroachment and breach of allotment terms. The court observed that the trust had repeatedly violated conditions attached to the original grant and ruled that there was no scope for regularising the illegal occupation.

The land was originally allotted several decades ago for limited religious use, covering approximately 33,980 square metres. However, government authorities submitted that the trust expanded its occupation to nearly 50,000 square metres over time. To support its claims, the state relied on GPS-based measurements and satellite imagery, which indicated that the encroachment extended onto adjoining government land as well as portions of the Sabarmati riverbed.

In its observations, the bench stated that the petitioner had engaged in persistent violations and clearly held that no equitable relief could be granted in such circumstances. The court also emphasized that riverbed land cannot be regularised under any legal framework, reinforcing the protected status of such public land.

Government pleader G. H. Virk, appearing for the state, informed the court that the reclamation process had followed due procedure, including multiple notices, inspections, and more than twenty hearings. He further argued that applications submitted by the trust seeking regularisation effectively amounted to an admission of unlawful occupation. He also indicated that fresh proceedings under Section 202 of the Land Revenue Code would be initiated, accompanied by a new notice for eviction and possession recovery.

The trust had requested a four-week stay on the order to approach the Supreme Court. However, the bench noted that any interim relief would require a formal undertaking to vacate the land, which was not granted. The court therefore refused to stay its order after the state assured further statutory action to secure possession.

The disputed land lies adjacent to the Narendra Modi Stadium and the Sardar Patel Sports Complex, an area earmarked for major sports infrastructure development. Authorities have linked the site to broader urban planning initiatives, including preparations connected to a potential 2030 Commonwealth Games bid and long-term Olympic infrastructure goals. With the appeal dismissed, the state government is expected to proceed with reclaiming the land in accordance with legal procedures.

India steps up action against Golden Crescent drug smuggling networks

NEW DELHI

Indian security agencies are focusing heavily on narcotics smuggling networks originating from the Golden Crescent region of Pakistan-Afghanistan, officials said. Intelligence inputs indicate a significant rise in drug trafficking from the region, which is believed to account for around 65 per cent of narcotics entering India, while the rest comes via the Golden Triangle covering Myanmar, Laos and Thailand. Officials said Pakistan-based networks are increasingly pushing drugs into southern states like Kerala and Tamil Nadu, with further movement towards Gujarat, Maharashtra, and neighbouring countries including Maldives and Sri Lanka. A high-level meeting between the Narcotics Control Bureau, NTRO and Indian Navy has decided to intensify surveillance of sea routes and container shipments. Authorities are also coordinating with international agencies. Officials added that a national roadmap has been prepared to make India drug-free through sustained, multi-agency action and tighter enforcement.

Pradhan Accuses Patnaik of Misleading Odisha Over Delimitation Bill Debate

BHUBANESWAR

Union Minister Dharmendra Pradhan on Friday accused Biju Janata Dal (BJD) president and former Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik of attempting to mislead and create fear among the people of Odisha amid the ongoing debate over the proposed delimitation legislation. The sharp exchange has intensified political tensions in the state, with both sides trading strong remarks over the interpretation and implications of the proposal.

According to Pradhan, Patnaik recently wrote to all 31 Members of Parliament from Odisha, urging them to unite in opposing what he termed a threat to the state's political and economic interests. In his letter, Patnaik reportedly expressed concern that the proposed changes could weaken Odisha's voice in national decision-making and impact its developmental priorities.

The controversy revolves around discussions on the 131st Constitutional Amendment Bill, linked to the broader process of delimitation. Delimitation involves redrawing electoral constituency boundaries based on population changes, potentially affecting the distribution of parliamentary seats.

Rejecting Patnaik's claims, Pradhan described them as politically motivated and labelled the letter as fear-mongering. He asserted that the concerns raised were baseless and could unnecessarily alarm citizens while distorting facts about the legislative process and its intended purpose.

Man arrested in Ahmedabad for threatening Bihar CM

AHMEDABAD

Police in Ahmedabad district of Gujarat have arrested a man for allegedly issuing death threats to Samrat Choudhary, a day before he was sworn in as the Chief Minister of Bihar, officials said on Friday. The accused has been identified as Shekhar Yadav (32), a resident of Sanand taluka in Ahmedabad and originally from Banka district in Bihar. He was arrested on Thursday in connection with the case. According to Ahmedabad Rural Superintendent of Police (SP) Om Prakash Jat, the accused allegedly called Samrat Choudhary's office last Tuesday, a day before the oath-taking ceremony, and issued death threats. Police are investigating the matter further. Police said further legal proceedings are underway and security arrangements are being reviewed by officials.

RAHUL ATTACKS CENTRE OVER WOMEN'S RESERVATION BILL AND DELIMITATION CONCERNS

NEW DELHI

Lok Sabha Leader of Opposition Rahul Gandhi on Friday, during a debate on three bills, accused the Centre of pushing its political agenda under the guise of the women's reservation legislation, calling it a façade unrelated to women's empowerment. He said the existing 2023 Women's Reservation Bill should be brought back and the opposition would support it. Gandhi alleged that the government was using the quota issue to sideline demands for a caste census and weaken representation of OBCs and marginalised communities. He further claimed that delimitation could reduce southern states' representation and accused the BJP of reshaping the electoral map to retain power, citing changes already seen in Assam and Jammu and Kashmir. Calling the move an "anti-national act", he urged equitable representation for Dalits and OBCs across institutions including bureaucracy, judiciary, and corporate India.

TOP LEADERS SET TO VOTE IN GUJARAT POLLS

High-profile participation expected in major local elections across Gujarat state

AHMEDABAD

Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah are expected to visit Ahmedabad on April 26 to cast their votes in the upcoming local self-government elections in Gujarat, signalling the significance of the electoral exercise.

According to official sources, the Prime Minister is likely to vote at a polling booth set up at Nishan School in the Ranip area of the city. Meanwhile, Amit Shah is expected to cast his vote at a separate polling station within Ahmedabad. Their participation highlights the importance attached to this round of elections, which is among the largest local electoral events held in the state in recent years.

The elections will span multiple tiers of governance, including municipal corporations, municipalities, and panchayati raj institutions. Former Chief Minister and current Uttar Pradesh Governor Anandiben Patel is expected to vote from the Thaltej area of Ahmedabad, while Madhya Pradesh Governor Mangubhai Patel is likely to cast his vote in Navsari.

Polling across Gujarat is scheduled to take place from 7 A.M. to 6 P.M., with Electronic Voting Machines being used at nearly 50,000 polling stations. The counting of votes is set for April 28. The elections will cover 15 municipal corporations, 84 municipalities, 34 district panchayats, and 260 taluka panchayats, with over 10,000 seats at stake.

Authorities estimate that more than 4.19 crore voters will participate in this extensive democratic exercise. The electoral contest is expected to be competitive, with major political parties such as the Bharatiya Janata Party, Congress, Aam Aadmi Party, and several independent candidates fielding contenders across constituencies.

More than 20,000 candidates remain in the fray following withdrawals, although a number of candidates have already secured victory unopposed. This election cycle is particularly significant as it marks the first implementation of a 27 percent reservation for Other Backward Classes, in addition to existing quotas for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes, and women. These changes are expected to influence the structure of local governance bodies. As polling day approaches, campaigning has intensified across the state, with political parties refining their outreach strategies to connect with voters.

TCS Nashik Case: Probe Points to Organised Harassment Module

Kolkata

Maharashtra Chief Minister Devendra Fadnavis on Friday said preliminary findings in the Nashik TCS case indicate that allegations of sexual harassment and religious coercion are "extremely serious" and part of an organised module rather than isolated incidents. Speaking during his visit to Kolkata, Fadnavis noted that Tata Consultancy Services has taken a proactive role, cooperating fully with investigators and refusing to shield the accused. Multiple FIRs filed by female employees detail harassment, stalking, and mental torture between 2022 and March 2026. He added that central agencies have been alerted and may assist if required. Police are analysing CCTV footage and digital records, while a Special Investigation Team probes the organised nature of the case. Several accused, including senior staff and an HR official, have been arrested.

CM Dhami conducts surprise inspection after CM Helpline complaint

Dehradun

Uttarakhand Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami on Friday conducted a surprise on-site inspection in Jakhan area of Rajpur Road after a complaint on the CM Helpline regarding damaged infrastructure. The complaint, filed by local resident Vivek Madan, alleged that a footpath was dug up during underground cabling work by the Uttar Pradesh Power Corporation Limited and was not properly restored, leaving uneven tiles and unsafe conditions for pedestrians. Instead of reviewing the matter in office, the Chief Minister visited the site, walked along the stretch with the complainant, and assessed the damage. He also made a video call to concerned officials, expressing displeasure over negligence and poor coordination. Dhami directed officials to ensure timely restoration and warned against repeated digging and wastage of public funds.

Hakim Slams BJP over Political Narrative Shift

KOLKATA

West Bengal Minister and Kolkata Mayor Firhad Hakim on Friday launched a strong attack on the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP), alleging that electoral politics in India has shifted away from ideological debates toward misinformation, social media manipulation, and pressure from investigative agencies. At the same time, he defended his party's governance record and development initiatives.

Hakim said that in earlier years, elections—particularly during the rule of the Left Front—were fought as clear political contests. However, he claimed that the nature of competition has changed significantly in recent times. According to him, battles against the BJP are no longer purely political but are influenced by misleading online content and personal attacks.

Taking a sharp swipe at the BJP, Hakim asserted that the Mayor accuses BJP of misinformation, polarization, and defends governance and development record strongly party would not come to power in West Bengal. He also raised concerns over alleged incidents related to food choices in BJP-ruled states, claiming that certain ideologies discourage non-vegetarian practices. He challenged BJP leaders to share a meal with him, questioning whether they would accept diverse food habits.

Hakim further accused the BJP of attempting to polarize voters using religious narratives. Referring to controversies involving former legislator Humayun Kabir, he said his party had taken disciplinary action, emphasizing that the issue was about political conduct rather than religion. He rejected accusations that his party engages in appeasement, instead highlighting its focus on social welfare and upliftment.

On constitutional values, Hakim stressed that rights are granted by the Constitution and cannot be taken away arbitrarily. He argued that secularism goes beyond minority-majority divides and warned that politicizing religion undermines democratic principles.

Criticizing the approach of Prime Minister Narendra Modi on reforms such as the Uniform Civil Code, Hakim said that major legal changes require consultation and parliamentary process, not unilateral decisions.

He also addressed language politics, stating that Urdu is an Indian language and should not be associated with any single religion. On governance, he highlighted infrastructure growth, welfare schemes, and job creation under the Trinamool Congress government.

Responding to allegations of electoral malpractice, Hakim insisted that his party relies on public support rather than coercion. He also questioned the Centre's handling of border security, indirectly targeting Union Home Minister Amit Shah over concerns about illegal infiltration.

Expressing confidence in the party's future, Hakim said that voters would ultimately judge based on development work rather than propaganda, urging that elections remain focused on governance and constitutional values.

ED CONDUCTS FRESH SEARCHES IN MONEY LAUNDERING PROBE LINKED TO ASHOK KHARAT

NASHIK

A fresh round of search operations was carried out on Friday by the Enforcement Directorate in connection with a money laundering investigation involving self-styled godman Ashok Kharat. The case also includes serious allegations of sexual exploitation and financial fraud carried out under the guise of spiritual activities.

Officials stated that the latest searches targeted commercial premises linked to Kharat, including the Oaks Property Office located in the Canada Corner area of Nashik. The location, identified as Canada Corner, has been under scrutiny since earlier enforcement actions in the case.

According to agency sources, the premises had already been sealed on March 26 following extensive raids conducted by a Special Investigation Team (SIT). The SIT had previously uncovered significant material believed to be relevant to ongoing investigations, prompting further coordinated action between the enforcement agency and local authorities.

The Enforcement Directorate official confirmed that the searches are part of an ongoing probe into suspected financial irregularities, including alleged benami property transactions, undisclosed assets, and complex financial arrangements linked to Kharat and his associates. Officials added that access to the sealed premises was secured in coordination with the SIT to continue evidence collection.

Earlier investigations had resulted in the seizure of multiple incriminating documents. Authorities reportedly recovered two sacks filled with papers related to property dealings, land transactions, and financial records. These documents included details of more than fifty-two land entries, suspected benami holdings, cheque books, receipts, and financial registers that may indicate large-scale irregular transactions.

Electronic devices were also seized during earlier operations, including computers, hard drives, and pen drives. These digital materials are now being analyzed to trace financial flows and identify potential links between individuals connected to the alleged network.

In previous enforcement actions, officials had also seized cash amounting to forty-two lakh rupees and frozen assets valued at approximately two crore forty lakh rupees. These steps were taken as part of efforts to prevent the suspected dissipation of proceeds of crime during the investigation.

Crime Branch arrests two in South Delhi MDMA trafficking operation

Delhi Police Bust MDMA Supply Network

NEW DELHI

Police in New Delhi have dismantled an organised MDMA supply module operating in South Delhi following a targeted operation conducted by the Crime Branch. Two individuals were arrested and a commercial quantity of narcotics was seized, officials said. The recovery included 19.15 grams of MDMA consisting of 29 Ecstasy tablets and crystalline substances, indicating an active distribution chain.

According to police officials, the operation was executed on the intervening night of April 12 and 13 in the Hargovind Enclave area of Chhattarpur. A taxi was intercepted during the raid, leading to the arrest of Deepak Kumar, aged 37, a resident of Govindpuri in Kalkaji. Search of the vehicle resulted in the recovery of 25 Ecstasy pills and 14.95 grams of MDMA crystals, confirming possession of a commercial quantity.

During interrogation and technical analysis, Deepak Kumar disclosed that he was working as a carrier for a larger supplier network. Acting on this input, the Crime Branch quickly identified and apprehended Md Farhan alias Sunny, aged 33, a resident of Pariyavaran Complex in Saket, before he could evade arrest.

Investigators stated that both accused operated in a highly secretive manner, frequently changing mobile phones, SIM cards, and locations to avoid detection. Farhan allegedly ran a delivery-based drug distribution system, using his personal vehicle as a cab during the day and for narcotics delivery at night, concealing drugs in packaged food items to evade suspicion.

It was further revealed that he was sourcing MDMA from a foreign national who has been identified, and efforts are underway to trace and arrest the individual involved. During a search of Farhan's rented accommodation in Saket, an additional 4.2 grams of MDMA were recovered, bringing the total seizure to 19.15 grams, along with mobile phones and a vehicle used for coordination.

A case has been registered under relevant sections of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act at the Crime Branch police station. Officials said further investigation is underway to uncover the wider network, financial transactions, and additional members involved in the trafficking operation, with more arrests expected in the coming days. Police also noted that Deepak Kumar had prior involvement in a robbery case registered at Kalkaji police station and had entered the drug trade due to financial difficulties.

PROFESSORS MISCONDUCT DISMISSAL

Three Himachal Professors Dismissed After Harassment Inquiry Findings

SHIMLA

The Himachal Pradesh Education Department has dismissed three assistant professors from service after a departmental inquiry found them guilty of sexually harassing female students, officials confirmed. The action follows a thorough investigation that established serious misconduct and abuse of authority by the accused.

The dismissed teachers have been identified as Virender Sharma, an Assistant Professor of Mathematics; Anil Kumar, an Assistant Professor of Chemistry at Siddharth Government College in Hamirpur; and Pawan Kumar, a Professor of Dance specializing in Kathak at Jawaharlal Nehru Government College of Fine Arts in Shimla.

The dismissal order, issued on April 16 by Education Secretary Rakesh Kanwar, stated that the charges of grave moral misconduct and professional violations against the accused had been substantiated. It emphasized that the relationship between teachers and students is rooted in trust, dignity, and the assurance of a safe and respectful academic environment. Acts of such nature, the order noted, undermine this foundation, weaken institutional discipline, and erode public confidence in the education system.

Officials said that the explanations submitted by the accused during the inquiry process failed to counter the evidence presented and did not reduce the seriousness of the misconduct established.

The investigation revealed that Virender Sharma, who was posted at Rajiv Gandhi Government Degree College in Chaura Maidan at the time, behaved inappropriately with a second-year science student on December 1, 2021. He allegedly attempted to establish personal contact with the student and summoned her to his residence, where he tried to assault her. The student resisted and managed to escape safely.

In another case, Anil Kumar, posted at Siddharth Government College in Nadaun, was found guilty of molesting and harassing a first-year science student during a chemistry practical class on November 14, 2024. The inquiry found that he repeatedly touched the student inappropriately and later absconded in an attempt to evade the investigation.

In the third case, Pawan Kumar was found to have misused his official position by summoning female students to his residence late at night for dance practice and forcing some to stay overnight. On January 22, 2024, he allegedly attempted to molest a student and later tried to cover up the incident. The investigation also revealed that his wife attempted to pressure the complainant's family.

Additional allegations against him, including unauthorized visits with students, arbitrary grading practices, and failure to maintain proper attendance records, were also proven during the inquiry.

Officials confirmed that all three professors have been dismissed from service with immediate effect.

Trump praises Taranjit Singh Sandhu on Delhi LG appointment

US President Donald Trump praised Delhi's new Lieutenant Governor Taranjit Singh Sandhu, highlighting his commitment to India-US relations.

WASHINGTON

United States President Donald Trump has offered high praise for Taranjit Singh Sandhu, the newly appointed Lieutenant Governor of Delhi. In a message shared by the US Embassy, Trump highlighted Sandhu's "deep commitment" to the partnership between India and the United States, marking a significant nod from Washington toward Delhi's local leadership.

Writing on his Truth Social platform, Trump congratulated the former diplomat on his new role. He noted that as a seasoned official and former Indian Ambassador to the US, Sandhu's experience would be vital in "leading Delhi's progress." Trump expressed confidence that the 63-year-old leader would continue to foster global connections while managing the capital's affairs.

Sandhu is widely respected for his time as India's Ambassador in Washington from 2020 to 2024. During those years, he was a key figure in deepening strategic bonds between the two nations. His career also includes important work at the United Nations in New York, making him one of India's most experienced voices in international relations.

After a long career in the foreign service, Sandhu entered politics and joined the Bharatiya Janata Party. Although he did not win a seat in the 2024 elections, his appointment as Lieutenant Governor allows him to bring his "solution-oriented" style to the city's governance. Sandhu has already called for political unity to help solve the daily challenges facing Delhi's residents, promising a fresh start for the historic national capital.

Lee's approval dips slightly amid economic concerns

SEOUL

South Korean President Lee Jae Myung's approval rating has slipped for the first time in three weeks, falling slightly to 66 percent. While the drop is only one percentage point, a new Gallup Korea poll released highlights growing public debate over the nation's economic health and welfare spending.

Despite the minor dip, Lee maintains a strong lead. Supporters praised his handling of the economy and his diplomatic efforts. However, 26 percent of respondents now view his performance negatively. These critics voiced concerns about the rising exchange rate and what some described as "excessive" welfare policies. Meanwhile, support for the ruling Democratic Party remains steady at 48 percent, its highest level since the administration began.

President Lee Jae-myung's approval rating dipped to 66 percent as critics questioned welfare spending, while he shifts focus to securing vital energy trade routes with Europe.

On the global stage, President Lee is turning his attention to international security. Later, he will join a high-level virtual meeting hosted by French President Emmanuel Macron and British Prime Minister Keir Starmer. The talks focus on protecting the Strait of Hormuz, a vital shipping route for South Korea's energy supplies.

The President plans to deliver a message emphasizing the need for global solidarity to keep trade routes safe. Officials say the Strait is "vital to national interests," especially as tensions in the Middle East threaten global oil prices. Notably, the United States is not expected to attend this specific gathering, placing a spotlight on South Korea's cooperation with European allies to secure safe passage through the crucial waterway.

India and Cyprus strengthen ties in Nicosia

NICOSIA

India and Cyprus have taken another significant step toward deeper friendship following a high-level meeting in Nicosia. India's High Commissioner, Manish, met with the Cypriot Minister of Justice, Costas Fytiris, to discuss essential legal and consular cooperation between the two nations. The talks covered a wide range of practical issues, including the exchange of prisoners, extradition processes, and criminal justice matters. Both officials focused on improving the lives of Indian nationals living in Cyprus by streamlining consular services. This meeting serves as a foundation for the upcoming official visit of Cypriot President Nikos Christodoulides to India, scheduled for May 2026. This diplomatic momentum follows Prime Minister Narendra Modi's landmark visit to Cyprus last year. The two countries are currently working under a "Joint Action Plan" that spans from 2025 to 2029. This ambitious roadmap aims to boost partnership in modern sectors like digital technology, renewable energy, and defense. Beyond politics, both sides expressed a strong desire to bring their people closer together through new academic and cultural exchange programs.

Police are investigating multiple violent crimes across Australia, including a stabbing in Kingsgrove and targeted attacks in Melbourne.

Police probe violent stabbings across Southwest Sydney

SYDNEY

Police in New South Wales have launched a major investigation after a 44-year-old man was hospitalized following a late-night stabbing in Kingsgrove. The attack occurred when the victim stopped his vehicle and was approached by two unknown men. The assailants stabbed the man in the shoulder before fleeing the scene on motorcycles. He is currently in stable condition.

This latest violence comes as authorities crack down on a string of recent weapon-related crimes. Police arrested a 15-year-old boy in connection with a separate machete attack that took place on a Sydney light rail service. In that incident, a teenage victim was slashed in the arm while riding public transport. The arrested teen now faces serious charges, including wounding with intent to cause grievous bodily harm, while officers continue to hunt for a second suspect.

The spike in knife crime has put the community on edge. Just two months ago, a similar random attack in western Sydney's Merrylands suburb left one person dead and two others fighting for their lives. In that case, a man reportedly stabbed multiple people on a busy main street in broad daylight before being captured by police nearby.

Local detectives are urging anyone with information or dashcam footage of the Kingsgrove motorcycle getaway to come forward. As investigations into these separate incidents continue, NSW Police have increased patrols to reassure the public and curb the recent rise in suburban violence.

MELBOURNE ATTACKS SPARK POLICE ALERT ACROSS CITY

MELBOURNE: Police in Melbourne have warned residents to stay alert after a series of arson attacks and a drive by shooting targeted hospitality venues across the city. Authorities said five fires and one shooting have taken place, raising concern about public safety. Two incidents happened in the central business district, while others struck inner southern suburbs. Early Friday morning, a shot was fired from a moving vehicle at a city venue. No injuries were reported. Police believe the cases may be linked and are investigating possible motives. In separate incidents, a man in Queensland was shot by police after a knife confrontation, while another shooting and robbery in New South Wales left one man injured. Investigators continue to patrol affected areas and increase security presence, asking businesses to review safety measures and report suspicious behavior immediately.

Armed group strikes military camp and highway

QUETTA

The Balochistan Liberation Front (BLF) has claimed responsibility for a series of violent attacks against military targets and infrastructure across the province. According to statements released, their fighters recently targeted a Pakistani military camp in the Jhao area and established a temporary blockade on a major highway.

The assault on the Kohadu camp reportedly began on April 12. A spokesperson for the group, Major Gwahram Baloch, stated that the operation started with a sniper strike on a guard before escalating into a full-scale attack. Fighters allegedly used rocket launchers and automatic weapons to damage the facility. The group claims that several military personnel were killed or injured during the confrontation, though these figures have not been independently verified.

In a separate move on April 14, the group blocked Nourozabad Road in Kharan for several hours. During this time, they searched passing vehicles and issued a stern warning to local transporters. The BLF cautioned that anyone providing logistical help or moving personnel for the military would be "directly targeted" in future operations.

This escalation follows a pattern of recent violence. In March, the group also claimed credit for destroying telecommunications towers, alleging the equipment was used for surveillance. They also reported a rocket attack on a Frontier Corps post in the Kech district. The BLF maintains that these armed actions will persist as they continue their push for regional independence. Local authorities remain on high alert as tensions in the province continue to rise.

Civilians return home as 10-day ceasefire begins

BEIRUT

A fragile 10-day ceasefire brokered by the United States officially began, sparking a massive wave of movement across Lebanon. Thousands of displaced civilians are currently clogging highways, heading back to southern Lebanon and the suburbs of Beirut to check on homes they haven't seen in weeks.

The truce comes after 46 days of intense conflict that has left cities like Nabatieh in ruins. Returning residents are being met with the sight of leveled neighborhoods, destroyed shops, and shattered infrastructure. While the return reflects a deep sense of resilience, many families say they are only visiting to assess the damage and are not yet ready to stay permanently.

Safety remains a major concern. The Lebanese Army has issued an urgent warning on social media, advising citizens to avoid border villages and stay away from "hazardous areas" during the night. Officials cited the presence of unexploded bombs and reports of sporadic agreement violations as ongoing risks to civilian life.

India and China map future of SCO

INDIA

Senior officials from India and China met in the capital this week to bridge the gap on regional cooperation. The two-day bilateral consultations, held April 16–17, focused on turning the high-level decisions made by the Shanghai Cooperation Organisation (SCO) leaders into reality.

Ambassador Alok A. Dimri of India and Ambassador Yan Wenbin of China led their respective teams. The primary goal was to strengthen ties within the ten-member group, which now includes heavyweights like Russia, Iran, and Belarus. In a rare show of unity, both delegations met with India's Secretary (West), Sibi George, to review a wide range of shared interests.

The discussions moved beyond mere diplomacy, targeting four specific pillars for regional stability:

- Security: Tackling cross-border threats and regional safety.
- Trade: Streamlining economic exchanges between the member states.
- Connectivity: Building better transport links across Eurasia.
- People-to-People Ties: Enhancing cultural and educational exchanges.

This meeting comes at a symbolic time, as both nations recently marked 76 years of diplomatic relations. Chinese Ambassador Xu Feihong noted that it is the "right choice" for the neighbors to partner together, famously referencing the "Dragon-Elephant Tango."

With Kyrgyzstan now heading the SCO under the theme of "Sustainable Peace," India and China have pledged to keep talking. While disagreements often grab the headlines, this week in New Delhi was about finding the common ground necessary to lead the world's largest regional organization into its next quarter-century.

Europe offers to clear mines in Hormuz

PARIS

France has announced that European allies have the military strength to clear underwater mines from the Strait of Hormuz, a vital route for global energy and trade. French Defence Minister Catherine Vautrin confirmed that France, Belgium, and the Netherlands are prepared to deploy specialized vessels to secure the waterway and provide armed escorts for commercial ships. The announcement comes as British Prime Minister Keir Starmer and French President Emmanuel Macron prepare to co-host a virtual summit with leaders from forty nations. The group aims to establish an international mission to reopen the strait, which has been hampered by tensions and naval blockades. German Chancellor Friedrich Merz is also expected to participate, signaling strong support from Berlin for mine-clearing and maritime surveillance. Prime Minister Starmer is expected to tell world leaders that reopening the strait is a "global responsibility" necessary for the free flow of commerce. While the proposed mission is described as strictly defensive, it follows claims by U.S. Central Command that American warships have already begun identifying minefields allegedly laid by regional forces.

Iran warns stability requires respect for sovereign rights

TEHRAN

Iran's top diplomat at the United Nations has warned that lasting peace in the Strait of Hormuz is impossible without full respect for Iranian sovereignty. Ambassador Amir-Saeid Iravani issued the statement, following a massive U.S. naval blockade designed to pressure Tehran amid rising regional tensions. Speaking from New York, Iravani argued that maritime safety in the Persian Gulf depends entirely on honoring the legal rights of coastal states. He labeled the U.S. military actions "unlawful" and a "flagrant breach" of the UN Charter. According to the envoy, obstructing traffic to Iranian ports not only violates Iran's rights but also threatens international trade and the rights of third-party nations. The situation in the strategic waterway has reached a boiling point. U.S. Central Command confirmed that over 10,000 personnel, a dozen warships, and 100 aircraft are currently enforcing the blockade. While U.S. President Donald Trump praised the Navy's efficiency, stating that "no ship is even thinking about entering," military officials clarified the blockade specifically targets Iranian coastlines rather than closing the entire Strait.

CANCER CARE CRISIS

Budget shortfall halts free cancer care in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD

A critical funding crisis in Khyber Pakhtunkhwa has brought free cancer treatment to a standstill at three major medical institutions. Over 1,000 registered patients are currently stranded without life-saving medication as hospitals in Peshawar and Abbottabad exhaust their remaining stocks.

The situation stems from a significant gap in government funding. While the free treatment program requires PKR 1,500 million for the 2025-26 period, only PKR 820 million has been released so far, leaving a deficit of PKR 680 million.

"Stopping these medications is a death sentence for many," warn local oncologists. Because these specialized drugs are prohibitively expensive on the open market, poor patients have no alternative way to continue their treatment.

CURRENT HOSPITAL STATUS

INSTITUTION	PATIENT IMPACT	STOCK STATUS
Khyber Teaching Hospital (KTH)	623 patients waiting	Completely Out
Hayatabad Medical Complex (HMC)	Registered patients waiting	Critical shortage
Ayub Teaching Hospital (ATH)	347 patients treated since Aug	Nearly exhausted

Beyond cancer care, the general public is facing a massive surge in medicine costs at major hubs like Rawalpindi's Bohor Bazaar. Prices for essential life-saving drugs have jumped by 50% to 500%.

- Insulin devices: Increased from PKR 2,200 to PKR 4,720.
- Thyroid medicine: Spiked from PKR 85 to PKR 290.
- Common antibiotics: Prices have risen by roughly 15-20% across the board.

Health Secretary Shahidullah Khan stated he is negotiating with the Planning and Development Department to move existing funds around, but until the cash is released, the province's most vulnerable patients remain in limbo.

Squash world mourns passing of visionary leader

Former World Squash Federation chief Narayana Ramachandran has passed away at 77, leaving a major legacy in sports administration

NEW DELHI

The global sports community is in mourning following the death of Narayana Ramachandran, the former chief of the World Squash Federation. Known affectionately as "Rami," he passed away at the age of 77 after battling a long illness.

Ramachandran was a trailblazer for Indian sports administration. In 2008, he became the first Indian to lead a major international sports federation recognized by the Olympics. During his eight years as president, he worked tirelessly to get squash onto the world's biggest stages. He was even awarded the prestigious Olympic Order for his incredible dedication and personal service to the movement.

Closer to home, he served as the president of the Indian Olympic Association. He is credited with bringing stability to the organization during a very difficult period. Friends and colleagues remember him as a calm, principled leader who always did what was best for the athletes.

He is also the man responsible for making Chennai the "squash capital" of India by building world-class facilities and hosting ten world championships.

Current sports leaders praised his legacy, noting that his hard work ensured squash remains a key sport in major events like the Asian Games. From local courts to international boardrooms, Ramachandran's influence was felt everywhere. As the sports world says goodbye, his contributions to the growth of squash will surely be remembered for generations to come.

RCB stars launch bold new global fan campaign

BENGALURU

Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) is taking its massive fan following to a whole new level. The defending IPL champions have launched the "#RCBEverywhere" movement, urging supporters to wear the iconic red and gold jersey in every part of their daily lives.

Leading the charge are cricket superstars Virat Kohli, Captain Rajat Patidar, and all-rounder Krunal Pandya. They are encouraging fans to sport the team colors beyond the cricket stadium, whether at the office, on vacation, or even at job interviews. "You've really made this a thing, and we love it," Kohli shared in a recent release, praising the loyalty of the RCB faithful.

The campaign has already gone global with the support of sprinting legend Usain Bolt. The world's fastest man posted a photo in the 2026 RCB jersey, wishing the team luck. Adding a touch of local heart to the movement is the "Kumbh Mela fan," who went viral last year for bringing his RCB shirt to the massive spiritual gathering to pray for the team's success.

Djokovic withdraws from Madrid due to shoulder injury

SPAIN

Tennis fans received disappointing news, as legendary Serbian star Novak Djokovic officially pulled out of the upcoming Mutua Madrid Open. Tournament organizers confirmed the withdrawal, citing a lingering injury that has kept the former world number one off the court for several weeks.

Djokovic has been struggling with a right shoulder injury since late March. The issue previously forced him to miss the Miami Open, and it appears he needs more time to recover before competing at the highest level again. A three-time champion in Madrid, Djokovic last won the title at the Caja Magica in 2019. In a brief message to his fans on social media, he expressed his sadness, stating he is working hard on his recovery to return to the tour as soon as possible.

The 2026 season has been a challenging one for the 38-year-old veteran. After a tough loss to Carlos Alcaraz in the Australian Open final in February, he suffered a surprising early exit at Indian Wells, losing a thrilling three-set match to Britain's Jack Draper. That match seems to have taken a physical toll, leading to his current hiatus from the ATP Masters 1000 circuit.

Despite this setback, there is still hope for his return during the clay-court season. Experts believe Djokovic is targeting the Italian Open in Rome, which begins on May 6. This would serve as his final tune-up before he attempts to add another Grand Slam title to his record-breaking collection later this summer.

Sri Lanka's women's cricket team set off for Bangladesh, with a fresh strategy and a powerful new mindset. Led by captain Chamari Athapaththu, the squad is focusing on "muscling" their batting performance under the guidance of their new head coach, Australian Jamie Siddons.

The upcoming series, featuring three ODIs and three T20Is, is a high-stakes mission for the visitors. Athapaththu emphasized that every match is vital for securing direct qualification for the next ODI World Cup. By winning in Bangladesh, the team hopes to avoid the stress and uncertainty of the qualifying playoffs. The skipper noted that the team has been training specifically on power-hitting to compete with the world's best.

"The arrival of Jamie Siddons is a huge step for us," Athapaththu said before departure. She expressed immense pride in how far women's cricket has grown in Sri Lanka, noting that young players are now stepping up as leaders. While the team will miss injured batter Vishmi Gunaratne, the captain remains confident in the talent of her replacement players and the experienced core of the squad.

The action begins in Rajshahi on April 20 for the one-day matches, followed by T20 battles in Sylhet. With the support of Sri Lanka Cricket and a revamped coaching staff, the team is determined to prove they belong on the global stage. This tour isn't just about winning games; it's about establishing Sri Lanka as a dominant force in women's cricket.

New pair joins India's Uber cup squad

NEW DELHI

India's women's badminton team has faced a sudden change just days before the 2026 Uber Cup Finals. Star doubles player Treesa Jolly has been ruled out due to injury, forcing a late shuffle in the national lineup. Her partner, Gayatri Gopichand, will also miss the event, leaving a gap in India's defense.

To fill the void, the Badminton Association of India (BAI) has called up Shruti Mishra and Priya Konjengbam. The young duo will join teammates like Tanisha Crasto to lead the doubles challenge. While the injury is a setback, the team remains hopeful. In the singles category, world-renowned star PV Sindhu will lead a group of talented young players, including rising star Unnati Hooda.

Meanwhile, the men's team is heading into the Thomas Cup with high confidence. Led by Lakshya Sen and the world-class doubles pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty, the men's squad looks stronger than ever. Veterans like Kidambi Srikanth and HS Prannoy are also ready to bring their experience to the court in Denmark.

The prestigious tournament is set to begin on April 24 in Horsens, Denmark. Despite the last-minute changes to the women's team, the Indian contingent is determined to make its mark on the global stage. This year's event is a major test for India's depth in badminton, blending legendary champions with the next generation of hungry young athletes ready to fight for gold.

Legal battle erupts over Messi missing Miami match

MIAMI

Soccer superstar Lionel Messi is facing a legal firestorm after a Florida-based promoter filed a lawsuit claiming the icon skipped a scheduled exhibition match under false pretenses. The legal action, filed by VID Music Group, alleges that Messi and the Argentine Football Association (AFA) breached a contract that was built entirely around the star's participation.

According to the court documents, the agreement for last October's friendly matches required Messi to play at least 30 minutes per game. The promoter argues that Messi's presence was the "primary economic driver" for the event. However, fans were left disappointed when the 38-year-old watched Argentina's 1-0 victory over Venezuela from a luxury suite at Hard Rock Stadium instead of taking the field.

The controversy deepened the very next day when Messi suited up for his club team, Inter Miami, scoring twice in a 4-0 win against Atlanta United. The lawsuit suggests this quick turnaround proves he was fit to play, accusing the star and the AFA of "negligent misrepresentation."

While Messi did participate in a later match against Puerto Rico, the promoter claims the damage was already done. The lawsuit also names sports executive Julian Marcos Kapelan, alleging a conspiracy to lure the company into expensive contracts under "false pretenses." As the 2026 World Cup approaches, this legal drama adds a layer of tension to Messi's historic career in the United States. Neither Messi's representatives nor the AFA have released an official statement regarding the active litigation.

Aussie teen Gout Gout chases sprint history

BRISBANE

Australia's newest track sensation, 18-year-old Gout Gout, is ready to shake up the world of sprinting once again. Just days after smashing the under-20 world record in the 200-meter dash, the teenage star has set his sights on a new milestone: breaking the legendary 10-second barrier in the 100-meter sprint.

Competing at the Australian junior championships in Brisbane, Gout eased through his heats with a solid time of 10.19 seconds. However, he knows he can go faster. Back in February, he clocked a personal best of exactly 10.00 seconds on this very same track. On Saturday, he hopes to join an elite club of only two other Australians who have ever dipped into the nine-second range.

"Anything is possible," a confident Gout told reporters, noting that calm winds could help him make history.

While current national record holder Patrick Johnson encourages the young star to "create his own reality," others are more skeptical. American sprint legend Justin Gatlin recently suggested that Gout needs to prove his speed outside the "comfort" of Australian tracks.

Gout, unfazed by the criticism, views the doubt as fuel. "If there are haters, it means you are doing something right," he said with a smile. For the young man often compared to a teenage Usain Bolt, the goal is simple: ignore the noise and keep running faster. All eyes now turn to the Brisbane finish line to see if a new era of Australian track has truly arrived.

Nail biting semi-finals at Delhi golf club

NEW DELHI

The historic Delhi Golf Club witnessed a day of high-stakes drama as Sara X Golf Code and Baale Golf fought their way into the finals of the fifth Members League. In a series of nail-biting matches, both teams showcased nerves of steel to overcome their rivals and set up a highly anticipated title clash.

The highlight of the day was a thrilling playoff between Sara X Golf Code and Athletic Drive. After both teams finished their regular games tied at 7 points, the match went to a tie-breaker. Pratap Singh Atwal became the hero for Sara X, hitting a massive drive that set up a perfect birdie. His teammate, Simar Inder Singh, provided solid support by finishing with a par, safely guiding their team into the championship round.

Athletic Drive had fought back valiantly from being down early in the day, winning the final two games of the main set to force that playoff. However, a bit of bad luck in the thick grass during the tie-breaker ultimately cost them the win.

In the second semi-final, Baale Golf proved too strong for the SwingKKings. Although SwingKKings took an early lead by winning the first game, Baale Golf stormed back to win the next three.

Uttar Pradesh hockey leads India's future growth

NEW DELHI

Uttar Pradesh is solidifying its position as the beating heart of Indian hockey. The state's Sub Junior Men's team recently struck gold at the National Championship in Bihar, marking a major milestone in a remarkable "grassroots to glory" journey. Over the last 16 years, the state has racked up an impressive 21 medals across various national categories.

The secret to this success lies deep within the state's organized scouting system. By finding young talent in small districts and training them in high-performance academies, Uttar Pradesh has seen a massive surge in victories. In fact, 15 of those 21 medals were won just since 2021. This rapid growth is supported by world-class infrastructure, with over 15 new blue astro-turf pitches built in cities like Lucknow, Varanasi, and Jhansi.

This system isn't just winning local trophies, it is fueling the national team. Stars like Olympic bronze medalist Lalit Upadhyay and rising talent Mumtaz Khan all started in this grassroots program. The state is proudly carrying forward the legacy of legends like Major Dhyan Chand, ensuring that the next generation has the tools to succeed.

R.P. Singh, President of Uttar Pradesh Hockey, credited the tireless work of local coaches and modern facilities for this rise. With plans to build even more pitches across the region, the state aims to send even more players to represent India on the global stage. For Uttar Pradesh, this golden era is just the beginning of a long-term dominance in the sport.

Women-led businesses need stronger policy support

New Delhi

A report by the Observer Research Foundation (ORF) has called for stronger regulatory reforms to support women-led enterprises in India. It recommends expanding the 3% reservation under the Government e-Marketplace (GeM) for women entrepreneurs and simplifying licensing and compliance processes to improve participation in public procurement. The report notes that women entrepreneurs continue to face structural barriers such as limited access to credit, markets, and government contracts, which restrict business growth. It argues that targeted reforms, easier regulatory frameworks, and improved procurement access are essential to boost women's participation in formal economic systems and promote inclusive growth across sectors.

Markets close higher on broad-based rally led by FMCG

Indian equities ended higher with strong FMCG buying while Nifty and Sensex posted solid gains across sectors overall.

MUMBAI

Indian equity markets ended the session on a strong note on Friday, supported by broad-based buying across sectors, with FMCG stocks leading the gains. The upbeat momentum helped benchmark indices recover and close higher despite intermittent volatility during the trading day.

The Nifty index gained 156 points, while the Sensex advanced 504 points, reflecting sustained investor optimism and steady participation from both institutional and retail investors. Market breadth remained positive, with more stocks advancing than declining across major indices.

FMCG emerged as the top-performing sector, rising 2.65 per cent, driven by renewed demand expectations and strong buying interest in heavyweight consumer stocks. Analysts noted that defensive sectors such as FMCG often attract inflows during uncertain global conditions, contributing to their outperformance.

Other sectors also contributed to the rally, with selective buying seen in banking, auto, and consumer discretionary stocks. However, gains were uneven as some IT and energy stocks remained under pressure due to global cues and profit booking.

Market participants attributed the positive close to improving global sentiment, stable crude oil prices, and continued foreign institutional inflows. FIIs have been net buyers in recent sessions, adding further support to domestic equities.

Sentiment was also boosted by expectations of steady domestic economic growth and resilient corporate earnings outlook for the coming quarters. Traders said that easing geopolitical concerns and stability in currency markets also helped improve risk appetite.

Overall, the session reflected renewed confidence in Indian equities, with strong sectoral rotation and sustained institutional participation helping benchmarks end firmly in the green. Analysts, however, cautioned that volatility may persist due to global macroeconomic uncertainties and geopolitical developments.

India's current account deficit may widen to 2% by FY27

NEW DELHI

Crisil expects India's current account deficit to widen to 2% of GDP by FY27, driven by higher imports despite stable oil price assumptions.

Crisil expects India's current account deficit (CAD) to rise to around 2 per cent of GDP by March 2027 even if crude oil prices remain in the USD 82–87 per barrel range, driven by higher import bills and persistent external uncertainties.

According to the report, the CAD is likely to expand from lower levels in FY26 to about 1.5 per cent of GDP in FY27 under a baseline scenario, but could touch 2 per cent in an adverse or higher-cost oil environment. The key driver remains India's heavy dependence on imported crude oil, which makes the external balance sensitive to global energy price movements.

Crisil noted that geopolitical risks, especially ongoing tensions in West Asia, continue to pose uncertainty for global crude prices and shipping routes. Any sustained disruption could push import costs higher and widen the trade deficit further.

However, the report also highlighted a cushioning effect from India's strong services exports, particularly IT and business services, along with steady remittance inflows. These help offset part of the merchandise trade gap and prevent sharper deterioration in the current account balance.

On the financing side, India is expected to rely on stable foreign portfolio inflows and foreign direct investment, though these flows remain sensitive to global interest rate trends and risk sentiment.

Economists say a CAD of around 2 per cent of GDP is still manageable by historical standards, but it could increase pressure on the rupee and require closer monitoring of external sector stability if combined with sustained high oil prices or weaker capital inflows.

Overall, the outlook suggests a gradual widening of India's external deficit, shaped mainly by energy prices, global trade conditions, and geopolitical risks.

PNGRB plans $12,500 cr LPG pipeline expansion drive

NEW DELHI

India's downstream regulator, the Petroleum and Natural Gas Regulatory Board (PNGRB), is preparing a major expansion of the country's LPG pipeline network that is expected to attract investments of around ₹12,500 cr, according to a recent report.

The proposed plan focuses on significantly strengthening LPG transportation infrastructure by shifting more fuel movement from road and rail to pipelines. This is aimed at improving efficiency, reducing logistics costs, and ensuring a more reliable supply of cooking gas across the country.

A key component of the expansion involves developing multiple new LPG pipeline projects that will connect additional bottling plants and consumption centres. Earlier assessments by PNGRB identified several pipeline routes to enhance nationwide connectivity and reduce dependence on tanker-based transport.

The initiative is also expected to attract strong participation from both public and private sector players, given the scale of investment and long-term demand for cleaner fuels. By enabling pipeline-based LPG distribution, the plan seeks to lower transportation losses, improve safety, and reduce carbon emissions compared to conventional logistics methods.

Another important objective is to support India's broader energy transition strategy. Expanding pipeline infrastructure will complement the growth of city gas distribution (CGD) networks and help ensure uninterrupted fuel availability, especially in underserved and remote regions.

Crisil expects Indian banks' gross NPAs to remain stable despite global risks, supported by strong fundamentals and credit growth.

Banks gross NPAs seen range-bound till 2027 report

NEW DELHI

Crisil expects gross non-performing assets (GNPA) of Indian banks to remain range-bound at 2.0–2.2 per cent by March 2027, even as geopolitical uncertainties in West Asia create external risks, according to its latest outlook.

According to Crisil, the banking sector's asset quality is expected to remain stable, supported by controlled slippages, steady credit growth, and healthy balance sheets across both public and private sector lenders.

The report noted that improvements in corporate leverage and strong retail loan performance have helped keep fresh stress additions under control, reducing pressure on overall bank balance sheets.

Crisil added that even though global risks such as elevated oil prices and geopolitical tensions in West Asia may create temporary volatility, Indian banks are well-positioned to absorb such shocks due to strong capital buffers.

It also highlighted that credit growth is likely to remain steady over the medium term, supported by domestic demand and ongoing investment activity across key sectors of the economy.

Overall, the report suggests that Indian banks will continue to benefit from a resilient macroeconomic environment, improving credit discipline, and ongoing resolution of legacy stressed assets, which together are expected to keep the GNPA ratio within a narrow range over the forecast period.

Analysts said that while external shocks such as geopolitical tensions and commodity price fluctuations remain a watch factor, the domestic banking system's capital adequacy and provisioning buffers provide sufficient cushion against potential deterioration in asset quality.

Credit metrics are expected to remain stable as recovery trends continue and systemic risks stay contained in the medium term outlook according Crisil estimates.

India seen as stable global capital hub with strong market growth

NEW DELHI

India is increasingly being viewed as a stable and attractive global capital hub, backed by a market capitalisation of around USD 4.4 trillion and strong macroeconomic fundamentals, according to Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) Chairman Tuhin Kanta Pandey.

Speaking at an interaction with global investors in San Francisco, Pandey highlighted that India's capital markets have demonstrated resilience despite global volatility and continue to offer long-term stability. He emphasized that the country remains "open and welcoming to global capital," supported by a transparent, consultative, and technology-driven regulatory framework.

Pandey noted that India's strength lies in a combination of controlled inflation, robust foreign exchange reserves, and stable external accounts, all of which enhance investor confidence. He also pointed to a growing base of domestic investors, which has added depth and stability to the markets, reducing dependence on foreign flows.

Highlighting reforms, the SEBI chief said efforts have been made to simplify Foreign Portfolio Investor (FPI) registration and compliance processes, along with expanding digital systems for onboarding and monitoring. These measures are aimed at improving ease of doing business and making Indian markets more accessible to global investors.

India's capital markets have also seen steady growth in initial public offerings (IPOs) and alternative investment funds, reflecting increasing participation and maturity. Policymakers believe such developments, along with continued regulatory improvements, are helping position India as a reliable destination for long-term global investments.

Additionally, stronger India–US economic ties and engagement with global venture capital ecosystems are expected to further boost capital inflows. With its large and growing economy, reform-oriented policies, and expanding financial markets, India is positioning itself as one of the most stable and scalable investment destinations globally.

Rupee strengthens amid easing tensions and equity inflows

MUMBAI

The Indian rupee appreciated by 28 paise to 92.86 against the US dollar in early trading on Friday, supported by improved global sentiment and gains in domestic equity markets. The currency opened at 92.93 in the interbank foreign exchange market and strengthened further during initial deals, extending its upward movement from the previous session. The rupee had already gained 19 paise to settle at 93.14 against the dollar.

Market participants attributed the rupee's rise to a combination of factors, including expectations of easing geopolitical tensions and renewed foreign investor interest in Indian equities. Foreign Institutional Investors (FIIs) turned net buyers in the previous session, purchasing equities worth Rs 382.36 crore, which provided additional support to the domestic currency.

However, forex traders noted that despite the gains, the rupee continues to face pressure from a relatively strong US dollar. The dollar index, which measures the greenback against a basket of six major currencies, edged up 0.05 per cent to 98.07, limiting sharper appreciation in the rupee.

Global crude oil prices also played a role in currency movement. Brent crude declined 1.16 per cent to USD 98.24 per barrel, falling below the USD 100 mark amid hopes of de-escalation in West Asia tensions. Recent developments, including diplomatic efforts involving major countries and a temporary ceasefire agreement in the region, have contributed to improved market confidence.

India construction sector to reach $1.2 trillion by 2034

NEW DELHI

India's construction market is projected to expand significantly, reaching $1.2 trillion by 2034 from $685 billion in 2025, growing at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.9 per cent, according to a report by Savills India and Hotelivate. The growth is being driven by strong infrastructure investments and rapid urban development across the country.

The report highlights sustained demand for office spaces, particularly from Global Capability Centres (GCCs), along with a clear shift toward Grade-A and sustainable workspaces, which is supporting the commercial real estate segment. However, rising input costs continue to put pressure on overall project economics.

Construction costs have risen by 6.4–7.6 per cent, largely due to higher mechanical, electrical, and plumbing (MEP) expenses. Between 2023 and 2025, cost inflation ranged from 3.8 per cent to 13.9 per cent across sectors, with retail and residential segments witnessing the sharpest increases. Malls saw the highest escalation due to complex designs and rising MEP costs.

Residential demand remains strong, especially for premium housing, while labour wages have risen about 23 per cent since 2020. Meanwhile, the hospitality sector is recovering steadily, with occupancy at 67–68 per cent and average room rates exceeding ₹9,000, supported by a robust investment pipeline.

GOLD PRICES RISE

Gold gains 10% amid global uncertainty outlook steady

MUMBAI

Gold prices have risen nearly 10 per cent in 2026 amid global economic uncertainty, with analysts maintaining a constructive medium- to long-term outlook, according to a report by Motilal Oswal Financial Services Ltd (MOFSL). The metal has shown volatile movement through the year, driven by shifting global cues and investor sentiment.

The report noted that geopolitical tensions, concerns over slowing global growth, and uncertainty around US interest rate policy have supported gold's safe-haven appeal. At the same time, intermittent strength in the US dollar and elevated bond yields have created periodic pressure, resulting in uneven price trends.

On the demand side, India has seen subdued jewellery purchases due to elevated prices, making consumers highly price-sensitive. This has also led to discounts in the domestic market. In contrast, China has witnessed relatively stronger investment-led demand, supporting global consumption trends.

The report highlighted a growing shift in India towards financial gold products such as exchange-traded funds (ETFs), indicating changing investor behaviour. Central banks also continued significant buying, purchasing up to 870 tonnes in 2025, though at a slower pace than earlier years.

Global ETF inflows have shown signs of recovery, suggesting renewed investor interest after previous outflows. Analysts believe this diversified demand base is helping support gold prices despite near-term volatility.

Looking ahead, gold is expected to trade in a broad range as markets adjust to evolving macroeconomic conditions. While short-term consolidation is possible, the medium- to long-term outlook remains positive, supported by inflation concerns, currency risks, and geopolitical uncertainty.

Experts maintain a "buy on dips" approach for long-term investors, noting that gold continues to act as a reliable hedge against inflation and global financial instability.

Coach praises stars after Punjab's big victory

MUMBAI

Punjab Kings' bowling coach Sairaj Bahutule has praised the heroics of Arshdeep Singh and Prabhsimran Singh following the team's convincing seven wicket win over Mumbai Indians. The victory was a total team effort, but the two young stars stood out for their match bwinning performances under the lights at Wankhede Stadium.

Arshdeep Singh, who had struggled with his form in earlier matches, silenced his critics by taking 3 wickets for just 22 runs. His victims included big names like Suryakumar Yadav, helping to keep Mumbai's total reachable despite a century from Quinton de Kock. Bahutule noted that Arshdeep went "back to basics" recently, focusing on intense target practice. This hard work paid off as he delivered perfectly with both the new and old ball.

On the batting side, Prabhsimran Singh made the difficult chase look simple. He smashed an unbeaten 80 runs from only 39 balls, leading Punjab to victory in just 16.3 overs. Bahutule credited head coach Ricky Ponting for this success, stating that Ponting's positive energy has transformed the mindset of the batters. Prabhsimran, in particular, has flourished under this new aggressive approach.

With this win, Punjab Kings have climbed to the top of the league table. While Mumbai Indians are left searching for answers, Punjab is riding high on confidence. Bahutule emphasized that the combination of Arshdeep's disciplined bowling and Prabhsimran's fearless batting is exactly what the team needs to stay at the top this season.

RCB GOES GREEN TO PROTECT THE PLANET

BENGALURU

Royal Challengers Bengaluru (RCB) is trading its signature red for a vibrant green. When the team steps onto the M. Chinnaswamy Stadium turf to face the Delhi Capitals, they won't just be playing for playoff points; they will be playing for the environment.

This annual "Green Initiative," which started back in 2011, features special jerseys made entirely from recycled materials. Beyond the fashion choice, the move highlights RCB's status as the world's only carbon-neutral T20 cricket franchise. It is a promise to the city and the planet to keep the game sustainable.

The team's efforts go far beyond the field. On match days, the franchise conducts surveys to understand how fans travel to the stadium, encouraging them to ditch private cars for the Bengaluru Metro. In fact, an RCB match ticket doubles as a metro pass, making it easier for supporters to reduce their carbon footprint. Inside the stadium, every piece of waste is carefully audited, and solar power helps light up the stands.

CEO Rajesh Menon noted that this achievement is the result of years of hard work, aiming to inspire fans to adopt greener habits in their own lives. Currently sitting strong in the standings with four wins from five matches, the team is in high spirits. As they chase another victory on April 18, the "Men in Green" hope to prove that winning on the scoreboard and winning for the earth can go hand in hand.

MUMBAI COACH BLAMES EVERYONE FOR POOR FORM

MUMBAI

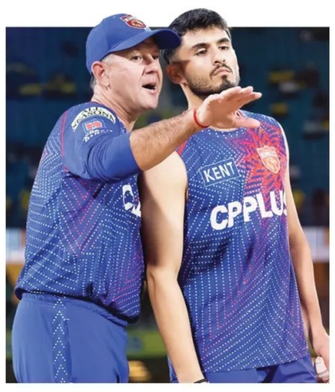
Mumbai Indians head coach Mahela Jayawardene says the team's current struggle is a "collective responsibility" after they suffered their fourth straight loss in IPL 2026. The Hardik Pandya led side fell to a seven wicket defeat against the Punjab Kings, leaving the five time champions near the bottom of the table.

Jayawardene refused to point fingers at any single player for the slump. Instead, he insisted that the entire management, coaching staff, and squad must take accountability. He noted that while Mumbai is playing "decent cricket," they are being outclassed by more clinical and confident opponents. According to the coach, the team needs to find its rhythm and better control key moments during matches to regain their winning touch.

There was a small bit of good news regarding star batter Rohit Sharma, who missed the last game due to a hamstring injury. Jayawardene confirmed that Rohit has started running and is being monitored daily. While the injury is not considered serious, the team is being cautious. They do not want to rush their former captain back too early in the long season.

Despite a spectacular century from Quinton de Kock, Mumbai's bowlers could not stop Punjab's chase. The loss leaves Mumbai in ninth place with only one win from five games. Jayawardene remains hopeful that a few quick wins will restore the team's confidence, but he stressed that the entire franchise must work together to turn their luck around.

Ricky Ponting shares secret to Punjab's success



MUMBAI

Punjab Kings head coach Ricky Ponting has revealed the strategy behind his team's unbeaten run in IPL 2026. Following a dominant seven wicket victory over the Mumbai Indians, the legendary Australian cricketer explained that building a winning mindset starts with a supportive environment rather than strict control.

Ponting believes his main job is to challenge players while making sure they feel valued. He emphasized that in the fast paced world of T20 cricket, failure is common, and players must feel safe enough to take risks. According to the coach, the team's success is built on giving every player a clear role. He noted that when athletes like Prabhsimran Singh and Shashank Singh feel fully backed by the management, they respond with match-winning performances.

The strategy is clearly working. Punjab is currently the only undefeated team in the tournament, sitting at the top of the points table with four wins and one rain affected draw. In their latest match, they made a difficult chase look easy, reaching Mumbai's target in just 16.3 overs.

Even a brilliant century from Mumbai's Quinton de Kock was not enough to stop the Punjab momentum. While Mumbai Indians have slipped to ninth place, Ponting's squad is thriving on a culture of confidence and clarity. By selecting the right people during the auction and focusing on a positive team culture, Ponting has transformed Punjab into the most feared side of the season so far.

TENDULKAR STUNNED BY IYER'S BOUNDARY BRILLIANCE

MUMBAI

Cricket legend Sachin Tendulkar called Shreyas Iyer's relay catch to dismiss Hardik Pandya one of the best he has ever seen live. The stunning moment came during the IPL clash between Punjab Kings and Mumbai Indians at Wankhede Stadium.

In the 18th over, Pandya smashed a powerful shot toward long-on. Iyer sprinted, leaped near the boundary, and, while airborne, flicked the ball back into play to avoid crossing the rope. Teammate Xavier Bartlett completed the catch calmly.

Tendulkar praised Iyer's sharp awareness, saying the effort required precise judgment of speed, balance, and teammate positioning in seconds. The wicket proved decisive as Punjab chased 196 in just 16.3 overs to win by seven wickets, despite Quinton de Kock's unbeaten 112, pushing PBKS to the top. The remarkable fielding effort quickly went viral, drawing praise from fans, former players, and commentators across the cricketing world.

Lalit Modi cites political interference in the Pakistan Cricket Board as the main reason for stalled India-Pakistan bilateral series

Politics keeps India and Pakistan cricket apart

LONDON

Cricket fans hoping for a match between India and Pakistan may have to wait much longer. Former IPL boss Lalit Modi recently shared his thoughts on why these two rivals do not play each other in regular series anymore.

Speaking on a popular podcast with cricket star Michael Vaughan, Modi pointed to one major issue that the way the Pakistan Cricket Board (PCB) is run. He claims the board is far too involved in politics. According to Modi, the PCB is not independent, and powerful leaders are "pulling the levers" behind the scenes. This political interference makes it very hard for the two countries to agree on playing together.

Modi explained that because of the deep tension between the two nations, things might actually get worse before they get better. He expressed worry for the players, noting that both Indians and Pakistanis are very patriotic. This strong national pride, combined with political heat, makes hosting a series almost impossible right now.

The history of these games shows a long gap. The last time Pakistan visited India for a full series was back in 2013. Since then, the teams only meet during major global tournaments like the World Cup or the Asia Cup. Their most recent clash happened during the 2026 T20 World Cup, where India won by 61 runs. For now, it seems fans will have to stick to these rare tournament meetings, as a regular series remains a distant dream due to these ongoing political hurdles.

Lalit Modi wants IPL teams in tests

LONDON

Former IPL chairman Lalit Modi has sparked a massive debate by suggesting that IPL franchises should own Test teams to save the longest format of the game. Speaking on a podcast with Michael Vaughan, Modi warned that Test cricket is "dying" globally and needs a radical makeover to survive.

Modi believes the current generation lacks the patience for traditional five-day matches. His bold plan involves allowing popular T20 clubs to form their own Test sides. These teams would play exhibition matches to build loyalty among younger fans who are already attached to IPL brands. While he insisted that international matches between countries must remain the top priority, he argued that "club-level" Test cricket could provide the financial boost the format desperately needs.

Beyond ownership, Modi suggested shortening the game itself. He has long advocated for turning five-day matches into four-day, day-night events. He argued that modern audiences no longer have the luxury of sitting in the sun for five days straight. In a world with endless media options, he believes the game must adapt to stay relevant.

Currently, Modi sees strong interest in Test cricket only in England and Australia, largely thanks to the historic Ashes series. In most other nations, he claims the format is fading away. By introducing lights, shorter schedules, and the power of IPL branding, Modi hopes to catch the interest of young fans and ensure that the traditional form of cricket does not disappear forever.

Mane hits ace to dominate in Johannesburg

JOHANNESBURG

Indian Olympian Udayan Mane has taken complete control of the IGPL South Africa tournament with a stunning performance at the Royal Johannesburg's West Course. Mane followed his opening round of 65 with a brilliant 8-under-par 64, leaving him at 15-under total and six shots ahead of his nearest rivals.

The highlight of Mane's flawless second round was a hole-in-one on the par-3 fifth hole. He started his day just as strongly, sinking an eagle on the very first hole. By the time he reached the turn, he was already 5-under for the day. Adding three more birdies on the back nine, Mane completed 36 holes without a single bogey, making him the only player in the field to reach double digits under par.

Chasing Mane is a group of three players tied for second at 9-under, Manav Shah, Pukhraj Singh Gill, and Ganjeet Bhullar. While they remain within striking distance, they face a steep climb to catch Mane, whose short game has looked incredibly sharp this week. Bhullar, a three-time IGPL winner, noted that while the course allows for low scores, catching Mane will require a nearly perfect final round.

In the team standings, Green Fuels Hyderabad holds a commanding 10-shot lead at 18-under, thanks to consistent play from Manav Shah and Danish Verma.
